

On another note, F1 fever was mounting just before the Formula 1 SingTel Singapore Grand Prix. GH Mumm started the soireés rolling with its F1 Vintage Party held at the National Museum of Singapore. They unveiled their style ambassador (apparently they needed one) — self-proclaimed power stylist Karen Ng (right). She wore one of D&G's Marilyn Monroe numbers, looking her vintage best. But we stifled a loud guffaw when she declared, "You don't have to be gifted like Picasso or Van Gogh to have style." Sorry, what? We knew these artists were talented, but stylish? And, and, and... the line that really floored us was: "All the single girls — wear your hot pants and don't forget to sip the GH Mumm."

Now, we know of a hot pants-wearing single girl who deserved a magnum of champers that night: Lady Gaga, who put on her best Poker Face for a 10,000-strong crowd at Fort Canning Park. FYI, the Singapore stop of The Fame Ball Tour was her biggest audience yet. We heard she was in a right foul mood just before the concert, but as she sings: "Just dance, gonna be okay, da da doo doo..." ELLE
